Description

This solid walnut console table with a double half-moon top rests on three covered legs on the front ending in brass shoes. At the rear part a fourth leg, adjacent to the drawer, slides to allow the top to be unfolded, mounted on brass hinges, and thus obtain a round table for 6 place settings. The top presents an assembly of massive boards, forming a square surrounded by four convex elements, matching the shape of this table. This table will appeal in particular for its console functionality, but also for the quality of its warm walnut.  Period: 1810 Excellent condition. Waxed finish.
