Description

Murano.Set of twelve cobalt blue molded glass bowls in the shape of Saint-Jacques scallop shells.Italy, Murano. 20th century (circa 1960-1970).H_15 cm - D_14 cmVery good overall condition.In the second half of the 20th century, the marine theme and organic forms inspired by nature enjoyed great success in tableware. Made in blown or molded glass of a deep, luminous cobalt blue, these elegant shell-shaped bowls were used for serving appetizers, desserts or as charming table vide-poches. Our set of cobalt blue glass bowls, part of the fine tradition of 1960s-1970s tableware, testifies to the quality of glasswork, combining the intensity of its color with the elegance of its fluted shell decoration
