Description

Elegant pair of wrought iron wall lights from the 1940s, reminiscent of the work of the famous ironworker Gilbert Poillerat. Each wall light has 4 finely crafted arms of light, adorned with fruit-shaped pendants in colored glass, in varied shapes and shades, which add a touch of refinement and fantasy. These wall lights, both utilitarian and decorative, can be used as candelabras or wall lights, thanks to their versatile design.A superb example of wrought iron art from this period, ideal for enhancing an interior with an exceptional piece.
