Description

Original oil on canvas by Jacques Deshaies, circa 1970-1980. Signed on the back and with a base mark. A beautiful work executed in oil and emulsion, a medium characteristic of the artist. Minor losses of paint in the emulsion area. Shipping within France: EUR50. Jacques Deshaies (1941-2005), who lived in Bernières-sur-Mer (Calvados), was not only a painter but also an inventor. In the 1970s, he developed an innovative technique: emulsion, a process that combines marble dust and pure pigments with egg white. Throughout his career, Jacques Deshaies, who passed away in 2005, was drawn to light, which he captured with great sensitivity. He often depicted the landscapes of Normandy and the South of France, using a palette dominated by deep ochres and intense
