Description

Pair of contemporary armchairs, model "Ekstrem" - Design Terje Ekström (1984) Stunning and sculptural, these "Ekstrem" armchairs are an icon of Scandinavian design from the 1980s. Designed by Norwegian designer Terje Ekström, they embody a radical and avant-garde approach to contemporary furniture, combining ergonomics, freedom of posture and bold aesthetics. The foam-covered tubular structure is sheathed in a red (or [specify color]) stretch fabric, forming a seat open to multiple positions. A true manifesto, the Ekstrem armchair is both a functional work of art and the centerpiece of any modern interior or design collection. Initially released in the 1980s, it is now considered a classic of Norwegian design and sought after by enthusiasts of the genre.
