Description

Herta Müller, School of Modern Abstraction. Mixed media on paper (pencil/charcoal, gouache/acrylic) "Untitled O.T. 2," signed and dated Herta Müller X-1. 97. On the reverse, the protective cardboard backing bears labels and stamps related to an exhibition at the gallery Georg Nothelfer in Berlin. 45 x 55 cm. German School. Herta Müller (1955) studied art from 1975 to 1981 at the Folkwang University of the Arts in Essen. She works as an independent artist, dividing her time and practice between Berlin and Loro Ciuffenna, Italy. Her works are exhibited and represented by renowned galleries such as the Georg Nothelfer Gallery in Berlin. Herta Müller's work engages in a subtle, contemporary dialogue between abstraction and figurative or landscape-inspired elements. Her compositions do not seek to copy or faithfully represent reality in a realistic manner. The forms, the energetic lines drawn in pencil or charcoal, and the flat areas of material structure the space of the page autonomously. Here we find the spirit of modern abstraction centered on the power of the gesture. Situated between lyrical abstraction and Informel art, Herta Müller's work is expressive, almost musical, and above all, it evokes a unique spatial fluidity that, to say the least, characterizes the strong personality of this talented artist. Modern patinated oak stretcher frame. Good condition.
