Description

Louis-Philippe-style walnut dining table - 19th centuryA very beautiful walnut dining table in the Louis-Philippe style, dating from the 19th century.It features an elegant oval tabletop with rounded ends, resting on a beautiful molded band. The base consists of six turned and fluted legs, richly carved with baluster elements, giving the piece a beautiful elegance and excellent stability.The table features an extension system that allows it to reach a very long length, making it particularly well-suited for large dining rooms and formal dinners.The walnut has a lovely antique patina and warm grain. It has a beautiful overall presence and particularly interesting proportions.Period: 19th centuryStyle: Louis-PhilippeMaterial: WalnutBase: Six turned and fluted legsExtensions: Extendable
