Description

Small Louis XVI-era cylinder secretary desk in mahogany and mahogany veneer, compartmentalized and veneered on all sides.The cylinder reveals a shelf above three drawers, which in turn sit atop three false drawers concealing the mechanism.The secretary desk rests on four fluted spindle legs, adorned with a ring and a gilded bronze footplate.Beneath the cylinder, two drawers are fitted with functional locks.Above the drop-down panel, there are two additional drawers, each with its own functional lock.A single key locks all the drawers.The piece is topped by a beautiful white Carrara marble slab, in very good condition, framed by a gilt-bronze molding.The top is covered with antique leather featuring vignettes, likely the original (showing signs of wear).The entire piece,
