Description

This 18k yellow gold bracelet captivates with its refinement and its perfectly executed alternating pattern. The deep-red garnets are set in a claw setting, revealing their full transparency and warm brilliance. They complement delicate gold motifs crafted from filigree, each adorned with rose-cut diamonds, chosen for their subtle sparkle and vintage charm.One of these motifs ingeniously conceals the clasp: an integrated, nearly invisible mechanism that blends naturally into the bracelet's line. A safety chain completes the design, ensuring a perfect and secure fit.A harmonious, luminous piece of jewelry, rich in goldsmithing details that attest to meticulous and precise craftsmanship.DetailsMaterial: 750? yellow gold (18 k)Gemstones:Garnets in prong settingsRose-cut diamondsWeight: 18.39 gClasp:

Integrated into one of the motifs, with a safety chainStyle: Late 19th - early 20th century, filigree work, romantic aestheticsCondition: Very good conditionOur opinionA bracelet of rare elegance, where every detail matters: the warm brilliance of the garnets, the poetry of the rose-cut diamonds, the finesse of the filigree work, and that concealed clasp, which attests to the quality of true craftsmanship. A luminous, delicate, and feminine piece, as pleasant to wear as it is to admire.
