Description

Moving alabaster statue of the nineteenth century representing the Christ child in adoration on the Cross. the representation of the child Jesus in meditation, alone in the face of his destiny and resting on a cross is rare. he is already rarely seen as a child meditating near a cross in his father's workshop (see painting of the brothers Le Nain) or pricking himself with a crown of thorns (see painting by Francisco De Zurbarán). here we have this moving representation in a statue of great quality. the child Christ is finely treated, the sculptor has been able to render in the face of the child the tragic of his destiny, but also his inner radiance. this work is rare by its iconography! the drapery of the garment is superb, the hair, the face, his hands, his feet are sculpted with force and emotion. a work of high quality. some egre
