Description

Here is a rare side table or display table on the market. It is a piece of Art Deco style furniture from around 1920. This table was made in Belgium. According to the sellers' family legend, it is a unique, custom-made piece commissioned around 1920 from "De Coene Frères" in Kortrijk, which had a department within its company dedicated to high-end, personalized orders. I have no documents to confirm the veracity of this story, but it remains true that this piece of furniture is exceptional in many respects. First, its very personal and luxurious design. Second, the meticulous care taken in its creation and the choice of materials used. These are all top-of-the-range, namely mahogany, mahogany burl and burr, rosewood, and solid black lacquered oak. All these rare woods, magnificently assembled, are highlighted by the solid bronze base. With its silver patina and stylized palmette decoration in the purest Art Deco style, this piece exudes luxury, spectacle, and the highly decorative presence of a bygone era. This table has been fully restored and polished using traditional methods. Despite being over a century old, it is in near-new condition, both functionally and cosmetically! This is a rare find on the collector's market, both in terms of its decorative appeal and its state of presentation, in addition to its exclusive charm and aesthetic presence.
