Description

A rare antique ring dating from the late 18th to early 19th century, crafted in 18-karat yellow gold.At the center of the design is a cushion-cut emerald weighing approximately 1.70 ct, characterized by an intense green hue and natural internal features that make each gem unique.The emerald is surrounded by a geometric frame of rose-cut diamonds, with an estimated total weight of approximately 1.00 ct. The characteristic facets of antique diamonds produce a soft, evocative glow, creating a refined contrast with the deep color of the emerald and the warm hue of the yellow gold.The quadrangular setting and substantial shoulders lend the piece a bold and authentically historic character. The ring shows signs of wear consistent with its considerable age.CharacteristicsPeriod: late 18th-early 19th
