Description

Oil on cardboard, signed "JFrison" in the lower right corner.Measuring 46 cm x 38 cm unframed, 57 cm x 49 cm overall.Depicting the Lively Entrance to a City in Morocco, painted in 1927.Jehan Frison, 1882-1961, a Belgian painter of lively landscapes, figure compositions, seascapes, interiors, still lifes, and flowers. Woodcarver and engraver. He was a student of Auguste Oleffe at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Brussels. In his early career, he was an avant-garde painter and exhibited on several occasions with the Brabant Fauves, who gathered at Auguste Oleffe's home in the Rouge-Cloître. He later turned to a more intimate style of painting. He traveled to Paris and London, but also--and above all--to Morocco in 1917 and 1927, a country for which he had a particular
