Description

Desk. Wood, metal. Portuguese school, 18th century.A rectangular table with a smooth top and lyre-shaped legs, ending in volutes and carved profiles. These legs are connected by two turned crossbars, adorned with gilded metal motifs. The central section of the table (as well as the edge of the top) features geometric carvings depicting pearls and lines (zigzags and diagonals). It has two drawers (lockable and featuring a highly ornate lock rosette) decorated with symmetrical diagonal carvings facing each other, a motif that repeats along the sides of the table's central section. Stylistically, it features details commonly found in Portuguese-school furniture, but it also recalls examples of the "Philippine style," furniture typically made from precious woods such as rosewood and featuring a tabletop with
