Neoclassical Stage Fan, Embellished With Gold Sequins--late 18th Century

530 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Bon état

Description

A folding fan with a polychrome-painted panel depicting a couple in ancient-style costumes tending flowers in a garden adorned with architectural elements.The scene, likely allegorical, evokes the love that is nurtured and cultivated.The fan leaf is richly adorned with sewn-on gold metallic sequins, forming drapery, garlands, and floral motifs, which also enhance the woman's garment.The frame is likely made of blond tortoiseshell, decorated with metallic inlays featuring botanical and geometric motifs.Condition: The colors are well preserved and have retained all their vibrancy. Signs of wear, small tears in the fabric at the folds, a few missing inlays, and minor damage to the frame, visible in the photographs.Dimensions: Spread when open: approximately 40 cm - Height: 21
