Long Saddle Pistol For A General, First Empire. By Boutet, Director And Artist, Versailles.

3 900 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Sterling silver

Length : 41 cm

Width : -

Diameter : /

Height : -

Depth : -

Description

Model from the 1st Vendéniaire of Year XII (September 24, 1803), signed "Boutet, Director and Artist--Manufactory in Versailles," with flintlock conversion. Five-sided smoothbore barrel, with burnished and gilded thunderhead decoration, mounted on wood with two slide pins; fixed thunderhead rear sight; front sight at the muzzle. Left side view signed "Boutet Directeur Artiste"; upper side stamped with "NB" on a gold background by Nicolas Boutet; right side signed "Manufacture à Versailles" and a flat-bodied percussion hammer.Long walnut stock. Cut-out iron fittings, chiseled screw heads. Two-piece counter-plate, cut and chiseled. Two cast rod holders. Steeply sloping stock with fine checkering, oval pommel; oval silver cap with a high rim, cast in relief and chiseled to depict the

Dealer

Cartouche 12
Souvenirs Historiques et Tableaux
Mobile : 0688971349

Rue du Pin 46100 Figeac
Lunan 46100

head of Jupiter against a radiating background. Period baton, 21 cm long. Total length of the weapon: 41 cm. Caliber: 17 mm. The mechanism functions very well.France. First Empire.