Description

Luigi Serralunga, Female Figure with Flowers, Oil on canvas, Late 19th-Early 20th centuryLuigi Serralunga - Female Figure with FlowersOil on canvas(100 × 70 cm; framed 123 × 94 cm)An elegant figurative composition signed by Serralunga in the upper right corner, depicting a young nude woman seated, captured in a moment of delicate introspection as she holds a bouquet of pink-hued flowers in her hands. The work follows in the tradition of figurative painting from the late 19th century to the early decades of the 20th century, a period in which the female nude was interpreted with lyrical sensitivity and elegant sensuality.The figure emerges from a soft, ethereal atmosphere, created through light glazes and a subdued palette dominated by watery greens, powdery pinks, and luminous whites. body is rendered with extreme delicacy, eschewing any marked realistic detail in favor of a soft, idealized rendering. The pensive expression on the face and the composed pose contribute to creating an image of refined intimacy.The contemporary frame, richly carved and gilded, is decorated with scrollwork and stylized foliage, an element that further enhances the elegant and decorative character of the work.
