Description

An elegant antique table lamp in the neoclassical style, crafted from solid brass and designed in the shape of an ancient column with a fluted cylindrical shaft resting on a circular, stepped, molded base. Typical of oil lamps with a regulator from the Napoleon III period (mid-19th century), this piece bears witness to the technical history of domestic lighting: converted in the late 19th century for use with kerosene, it was subsequently carefully electrified for modern use.Description: Neoclassical body: made of solid brass with regular vertical fluting inspired by antiquity (Louis XVI/Empire style revisited during the Second Empire), featuring a beautiful antique golden patina and balanced architectural proportions.Burner: period Kosmos spout in openwork brass with a crown, featuring its original adjustment knob (non-functional) stamped with a key in relief and the inscription " Registered Trademark".Original glassware (rare): Equipped with its authentic antique chimney made of finely blown and annealed glass (late 19th-early 20th century), bearing the acid-etched inscription " Prima Cristal" surmounting a royal crown--a historic hallmark of the great European glassworks (Bohemia, Lorraine, Belgium) guaranteeing top-quality, heat-resistant glassware. Its intact condition is a true mark of authenticity.Lampshade and electrical wiring: Electrified by our workshop (with a discreet cable exiting at the base) and topped with a black drum-shaped lampshade with a gold interior that highlights the brilliance of the brass. Lampshade dimensions: diameter 25-20 cm, height 16 cm.A timeless piece with character, in good overall condition with signs of use and a patina consistent with its age--ideal for adding a classic, historic, and warm touch to a desk, console table, or contemporary interior.
