A touch of romance and nostalgia: a rocking horse made of wood and papier-mâché.The horse is made of hand-painted papier-mâché, and the base is a wooden frame featuring images of galloping horses created using stencils.It dates back to the first half of the 20th century: how many children must have ridden it, and where?It's impossible to know, but just how much charm have these toys retained from a time when children didn't know what plastic was?It measures 100 × 27 cm and is 68 cm tall
