Description

Tiara comb with tortoiseshell legs and a gold honeycomb plate on the front. This comb is embellished with 3 camai stone, profiles of two men and a woman in the antique medallions. They are encircled with blue enamel, presence of gaps and small chips around these and a slight crack on the central medallion. This tiara carries the punches on the silver part to the current rooster department, 85 guarantee stamp, punch to the horse head and master goldsmith's mark. On the gold part punch with the head of cock and punch of master Goldsmith. Very beautiful object of Empire period.
