Small Earthenware Flask With Sponge-painted Decoration, Late 18th-early 19th Century

180 EUR

Period : 18th century
Condition : Bon état
Material : Earthenware
Height : 14 cm

Description

A small earthenware bottle or flask with a globular body topped by a bulb and a small, narrow neck, featuring a nuanced white glaze set against a brown-purplish manganese sponge-washed background, with, on two opposite sides, multilobed medallions outlined in brown. Each medallion features a bouquet rendered in shades of blue with touches of pale green. A French provincial piece from the late 18th or early 19th century, the exact origin of which remains to be determined (Nivernais, Auxerrois, or Franche-Comté). Dimensions: height 14 cm. In good overall condition. Minor chipping and signs of age along the rim, visible in the photographs. No cracks or restoration.
