Description

This oil on cardboard representing apples and grapes in front of a ewer, is in the style of François Miel Vernay (1821-1896), Lyon painter, died poor and unknown of his time at the Hôtel-Dieu de Lyon. He was first a draftsman (cartoonist for cartons for canuts), for the silk industry in Lyon. Then from 1865 he devoted himself to the still life of flowers and fruits. At present, it is recognized at its fair value, thanks to its great richness of dough and color, foreshadowing the future boldness of Fauvism. Signed lower left.
