Description

Here is a piece that immediately stands as a true hearth sculpture. Pair of wrought iron andirons, each upright topped with a polished brass ball contrasting with the dark patina of the metal, on curved feet. A model by Jacques Adnet, a major figure of French decorative arts, whose vocabulary marries modernist rigour with noble materials. A sober, timeless piece, 1950s. A utilitarian object turned decorative work, it will powerfully dress a contemporary fireplace or a characterful interior, and will delight lovers of fine ironwork.
