Description

Vintage sterling silver Hanukkah menorah manufactured by David Shain in London in 1951. The piece weighs 272g (approximately 8.74 troy ounces). The dimensions measure 25 x 8.5 cm. The base contains a complete set of English hallmarks including the DS maker mark inside a regular polygon shield, the lion passant, the leopard head, and the lowercase gothic letter q indicating the year 1951. The construction consists of a domed, multi-lobed hexagonal stepped pedestal base supporting an elongated baluster stem. 8 square-profile branches extend upwards to form a uniform horizontal row of 8 candle nozzles. A 9th central vertical extension acts as the shamash branch, which is topped with a distinct, fixed openwork Star of David finial. The interior of the pedestal base is hollow and
