Description

Kanak "phallic" headache from New Caledonia. Hardwood (guaiaac, ironwood or kohu) with red brown patina (the patina was given with tamanu oil) The patina reveals on the lower part of the handle (first half) the place of the envelope of cloth or tapa ligatured that certainly had the weapon before being disarmed (as it is said), that is to say that one has voluntarily removed to him this sheathing and of this fact the object not being able more than serve as pageantry.
