Description

The scenes of forgiveness are Breton pilgrimages with a fixed date and which include outdoor processions, following the same route The troménie is a circular procession, and the great troménie of Locronan represented by this painting, is the most famous with a route of 12 kilometers every 6 years, with the bay of Douardenez at the bottom. The painter who made this magnificent work, oil on cardboard of 54 x 99 centimeters, has represented the Breton coast a lot by traversing in particular Finistère in all directions during the interwar period He made rare works on the great troménie of Locronan (this one is dated 1941, see the photo on the back with the explanation of Locronan's great tromaenia) He will be part of the Concarneau group before being appointed painter of the navy
