These decorations are: -the blue scarf of a knight of the order of the elephant. -the knight's plaque of the Order of the Elephant. -the Grand Cross plaque of the Order of Dannebrog. -On the reverse, the Cross of Grand Commander of the Order of Dannebrog. -At the neck, Cross of Grand Commander of the order of Dannebrog, in diamonds, gold and enamel, with a tricolor ribbon. Monogram, at the level of the gold bail, of King Christian IX (1818-1906), who reigned from 1863 to 1906. The order of Dannebrog was founded in 1219 by Waldemar II, as a civil order of chivalry rewarding the acts of dedication and services rendered to the King. Abandoned later, it was restored in 1671 by King Christian V (1646-1699), it is still in place today. The Order of the Elephant was created in 1460 by King Christian I of Denmark. In 1693, King Christian V, published the statutes of this order, the most prestigious in Denmark, still in force today. Very good state. Cleaning performed by a professional. Gilded stucco frame.
