1802, but it does not include cups and saucers.

Much of Lord Liverpool's service is today kept in the National Trust collection at Lyme Park, Cheshire. A juice jar was sold at Piasa, Paris, December 4, 2009, lot 127 (See Napoleon I and Sèvres, p. 249, n ° 25).

- the second one described "figurines à fond écaillé" was delivered on 4 and 5 December 1804 to Napoleon for the Tuileries, but it does not include cups and saucers either. Some pieces of this service are now preserved in Fontainebleau (see Napoleon I and Sèvres, p. 256, n ° 54).
