Description

Art deco period walnut chest of drawers. The top is set back from the frame, it is juxtasposed to the upright and to the side. The drawers have a continuity in the grain of the wood from top to bottom, they rest against the recessed cross members. The amounts of the facade are clad in counter-wire. The sides also had a flamed vein. The base is curved and the belt scalloped. The top, the drawers and the uprights enhance the geometric line inspired by the shape of the temples. The sliding of the drawers works wonderfully. Delivery possible not included in the price
