Description

Rare model of Turkoman carpet, originating in Central Asia, including unusual colors and a particularly elaborate graphics.

This superb piece collected on site is in used condition, used, in yurts, so it shows signs of wear. Small reminder, rugs from the 19th century or early 20th century in perfect condition, that does not exist, especially tribal rugs!

Our model is adorned with guls, medallions, repetitive throughout the field. Note the complexity and the width of the border, which apart from the separating stripes, presents a superb Greek, a border of large stylized flowers with eight petals in golden colors of the most beautiful effect.

To this is added a border of Kotchaks, stylized ram's horns, running along a zig zag line, symbol of eternity or water. Borders with S, run along these borders, symbolizing God. The colors of the whole remain uncommon for this type of carpet.

We know five types of Turcoman carpets, the TekkÃ©, Agkal, Yomoud, Gharawalle and Nokkhalli, the complexity of the graphics and the nuances make them for the old carpets, the hardest to determine and to appraise, in the same way as the Caucasus.

This rug is a superb collector's item, to keep as it is or to restore. The wools used for these rugs are those of Bactrian camels, goats, sheep, but also yak when you get closer to Tartary.

Dimensions: Width: 153 cm (5'3") x Length: 216 cm (7'1")

This rug has been professionally and environmentally cleaned.
