Description

Showcase buffet in solid mahogany, attributed to the Parisian Maison Édouard Diot. The central body opens with two doors with ogee frames. The periphery is with flowerbeds and with breaking in the upper part. They have bronze entrances and an original lock with key. The interior is lined with a thick shelf, adjustable since on racks. The belt has two drawers, with eventful facades. They are equipped with chiseled pull handles, decorated with blooming flowers. A functional original lock, in the center, locks these drawers simultaneously. The tray, with a crushed groove, is surmounted, in a molded frame, by a bevelled mercury mirror. The latter is surmounted by a curved panel, with a border and interior moldings, and a curved shelf at the corners. Set back at the ends, two narrow cabinets with glass doors and
