Description

This rounded console has a wrought iron belt, openwork, with small arch patterns. It rests on two legs, composed of double wrought iron elements, with significant upward scrolls, the front of which is decorated with acanthus leaves. Their curves taper down and end in small cylindrical feet. The veined ocher-colored marble is shaped with a groove around its perimeter. The clean lines of this Baroque style console give it a lot of elegance. It will know how to be an element of decoration both inside and outside.

Period: 1930 Perfect condition.
