Description

Pair of Italian candelabras made in the second half of the 20th century in the Empire style. Good condition, to report two small defects: a small hole at the intersection of the 3 arms and a deformation inside one of the central sockets (see last two photos). Weight of each candelabra, approximately 700 grams only indicative of the weight of the silver because in the center is present, inside, an iron rod.Due to the new U.S. customs regulations effective August 29, 2025, which abolished the de minimis exemption and require duties to be paid in advance by the sender, I regret to inform you that I will not be shipping to USA .I also do not ship to countries with internal critical situations.
