Claude François Bouvier was a pewter craftsman, mainly active in Clamecy in the 19th century, more precisely between 1835 and 1865. His activity focused on the manufacture of utilitarian pewter objects, such as dinnerware, which were very common at the time, particularly among shepherds and field workers. Working with pewter required a high degree of technical mastery and know-how handed down from generation to generation. As a renowned craftsman, Bouvier mastered the gestures and techniques required to create quality pewter objects. Among Claude François Bouvier's creations, the dinner sets are particularly noteworthy. They are distinguished by their elegance and meticulous finish. They are often adorned with simple, refined decorations, such as cherubs' heads or floral motifs.
