Description

This middle piece of furniture, on all sides, is made up of four solid mahogany tops. The latter as well as the crosspieces of the belt are encrusted, in their circumferences, with nets of lemon tree. The third level of this shelf comprises a set of elements that can be pulled and tilted to form a desk. In the lower part, we find a drawer, in the same spirit, framed by a thin rod and opening by two chiseled brass buttons. Beginning at the top with a ball, the uprights are turned with double balusters between each plate. They end with a spindle foot. Sober and remarkably thin, this shelf will fit into your home with its timeless style.  Period: 2nd half of the 19th century Excellent condition. Satin varnish finish.
