Description

This light-coloured solid oak desk is characterized by the fine workmanship of its belt. Indeed, a gadrooned molding adorns the perimeter of the desk. On the front, two drawers with brass basin knobs provide storage space. The upper is trimmed with a recently replaced soft green leather with gold vignette, decorated with a pattern in its center; it rests on a Bec de Corbin tray. Its four cylindrical legs slightly domed in the center are carved with grapes and foliage reminiscent of antique columns, and end on a square base with floor runners. They are connected to each other by a spacer. This Empire style desk will seduce with the finesse of its lines.
