Description

Pair of large Louis XV style lounge chairs, in walnut, made in the second half of the 19th century. It rests on four arched legs, the two fronts are ringed and finished with wheels. The front crosspiece of the belt is carved with a charming bouquet of leafy flowers. The top of the backrest, rounded in shape, is embellished with a catouche formed by two acanthus leaves and framed by two flowery stems. The upholstery is in very good condition, the seat is firm and comfortable. The covering fabric is in green velvet with a studded finish. Note, two small stains barely visible on one of the chairs.
