Description

Large display case in marquetry and brass. Craft furniture from the beginning of the 20th century in wood and brass. This piece of furniture is fully glazed on its front face, the sides and the top. It has a large storage space intended to accommodate goods or other objects to be displayed.

The showcase opens from the back using 3 sliding doors and it also has 3 large storage lockers. This type of furniture was mainly used in shops in England during much of the 20th century. They were used to store and display valuable goods to facilitate customer choice without customers being able to touch them directly.
