Description

Large pewter "cardinal" dish, 17th century. Presence of the control stamp imposed by Louis XIV in 1657 and compulsory from 1691 which required the name of the city, the letter C or F (common or fine pewter) and the date of 1691. Here it is therefore common pewter, the city seems to be "Tholouze". Presence of "LF" monogram, probably the name of the potter. Diameter: 34.7 cm. The so-called common pewter was reserved for crockery, it contains a fairly high proportion of lead (10 to 20%) (unlike the end 10%). Partial wear from use, good general condition. Rare item. All deliveries, careful shipping with insurance.
