Description

Small empty-pocket living room table with a bowl-shaped top composed of two boards surrounded by a raised frame assembled with a miter cut. In the belt, a pretty drawer whose bottom is slightly cut out along its entire length, gives this piece of furniture a singularity of its own. Halfway up, a tablet connects two curved legs, themselves united by a rounded binder on top. Its size and look give this sideboard a unique charm. ***** Period: mid-19th century
