Description

Important fireback, from the 19th century, with the coat of arms of the Lezaack family, installed since the middle of the 18th century near Liège in Belgium at Chanxhe. On the death, in 1754, of Philippe-Joseph de Hauzeur, ironmaster in Raborive-lez-Aywaille, his widow Marie-Anne-Françoise de Lezaack transported, the same year, the family metallurgical industry to Chanxhe and had a castle built. , still existing. In 1758, she obtained from the Empress Marie-Thérèse, the authorization to erect a furnace in this place, very well located for the transport of minerals and charcoal from the Ardennes, thanks to the river Ourthe. . On the death of his mother in 1762, Thomas-Joseph, canon of Saint Martin in Liège, directed the operation until his death at the Château de
