Description

Beautiful walnut wood armchair made in the last third of the 17th century, very early 18th century. It rests on a base connected by a baluster-shaped turned wood H-shaped spacer. The two rear legs are straight and square section, the two front legs are baluster. The wide and high backrest is flat and tilted back, giving better comfort. The armrests with sinuous shapes are finished with a rounded butt. The seat is still comfortable, the covering fabric is in Genoa velvet and is in good house condition. Note, old repairs (splices) on the rear feet (see last photo). Shipping costs by carrier contact us.
