Description

Georges Lavagne (1902-1995) Enters the National School of Decorative Arts and chooses to work in advertising and decoration. An excellent draftsman, he became a popular poster designer. After the Second World War, he returned to Roussillon and promoted hydrotherapy and tourism in Roussillon. He drew for the local magazine Reflets du Roussillon (1954-1971). He is also a painter. This illustrator worked for a long time with Yves Hoffmann: their complicity began with the creation of Reflets du Roussillon.
