Large Four-Door Cabinet from the Louis XV period, with front and sides in Roux Cherry. By definition, it is made up of two plumb bodies, each offering two leaves with wide mouldings. The latter are provided with iron keyholes, locks in working order and their keys, all original. The interiors are respectively equipped with three then one 55 cm deep shelves placed on fixed cleats. We will also appreciate the presence, at a third of the height, of a retractable Service Shelf, with molded edge and very functional, especially in the case of use of this piece of furniture as a dresser. Although of a relative sobriety, the upper crosspiece of this Four Sections is embellished with a Knockout Decor, the lower one is fretted and the visible uprights are fluted. The set is topped with a molded Cornice with rounded
