Description

Cabinet in Roux Cherry in the Louis XV style, of Vendée origin. It opens, in the upper and lower part, with two slightly cut and partially molded doors. Each discovers two storage compartments, formed by the presence of shelves 53 cm deep, redone in ash and placed on fixed cleats. Between these two spaces are two drawers, equipped, as are the doors, with authentic ornate fittings and locks in working order with their respective original keys. Only the left drawer has a more artisanal blocking system with a wooden key. Under the molded Cornice we will appreciate the rectangular marquetry in Elm burl, framed by an Ebony fillet, itself inlaid with small bone squares. We find this same motif, in a smaller size, between the two drawers. The low crosspiece is embellished with a naive decoration of flowers
