

Japan, Meiji Era Spider Monkey In Lacquered Wood And Sulfide Eyes

1 580 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Length : 29 cm au plus grand bras

Height : 18 cm

Description

Interesting lacquered wood sculpture representing a monkey with oversized arms.

probably a spider monkey.

a very surprising and unusual Japanese wooden sculpture:

the arms are very long and allow you to cling thanks to claw-shaped hands, the legs are crossed in an anthropomorphic attitude.

the eyes are in sulfure and very expressive slightly golden.

Japanese work from the beginning of the 20th century, Meiji era.

a varnish was added in the 20th century to protect the whole.

a very surprising Japanese sculpture in lacquered wood.
