Description

We present this interesting chest from the 17th century. A wooden frame covered with pointed leather on all edges which produces a very decorative effect and in addition on the front facade nine cartridges on which are applied pretty bronzes from the same period, ie from the 17th century. A keyhole also in bronze. The period lock and even the key are present. On the domed lid still six cartridges and a brass handle to help him lift the lid. Trunk completely out of what we are used to seeing and of a bit exceptional size. Sold in its juice, with the marks of time. (E)
