Description

Lady's piece of furniture called "Bonheur-du-jour" in the Louis XVI style, in solid mahogany and mahogany veneer. Its belt is equipped with a single drawer whose knockout front is surrounded on the inside by a brass quarter round. Two Louis XVI brass pull handles frame an authentic lock in working order, benefiting from an oval bronze entrance surmounted by a Louis XVI knot. On each side, a brass inlay forming a diamond brings a touch of originality to this property. Above, two pull tabs with "lens" buttons allow the writing part to be held in place, which unfolds thanks to hinges. We discover a dark interior part of an almond green leather with cold stamp, golden stamp and angles with golden patterns as well. The set rests on four sheathed feet ending in a brass shoe with a top surrounded, projecting, by a brass molding. This refined piece of furniture has a wall unit made up of two drawers, also recessed, fitted with a frame with a brass half-round and a lens button. Above, two small doors with solid mahogany frames are glazed on discreet brass knobs. The right door closes on the left side with a small brass cover. We find an original lock with key in working order embellished with a beaded Louis XVI entry. The uprights on each side are inlaid with brass nets and the top, in a single board, has a brass quarter-round surround. Harmonious and elegant, this small quality piece of furniture with golden ornaments will delight with its functionality and ideal dimensions. *****
