Description

French school circa 1880: "The road to Emmaus", oil on canvas 17 X 32 cm mounted in a gilded frame 20 X 35 cm. However, it is not under glass or varnished too shiny, but my camera has trouble focusing on this painting and rendering all its finesse. When I bought it, the seller told me about the painting of the "apostles" and I pointed out to him that nine were missing, to which he replied that they were still at the bottom, in the fog! As it is the kind of humor that I practice willingly, I could not help but buy it from him... It must be said that this study on free canvas, simply held in a posterior frame by a cardboard box, already had everything for me. please: the suggestive touch, the composition, and the style at the crossroads of Delaroche and Flandrin, even if I see it a little later, around 1880. As for the subject, it could be
