Description

Large sculpture by Louis-Emile Cana (1845-1895) artist who exhibited at the Universal Exhibition in 1878. Pupil of Arson, he gives us here a bucolic work, presenting a young girl carrying a basket full of cherries. Dressed in a spring outfit and her soft hair wrapped in a scarf, she sits on a stump, barefoot and sports a slight smile that illuminates her youthful features. The details brought to this sculpture and the softness which emerges from it illustrate the innocence, the beauty and the poetry of youth.  Period: Late 19th century Delivery possible by Colissimo with suitable protection.
